Southern Exposure Announces New Writing Fellowship Open call application period launches today

December 7, 2015, San Francisco, CA – Southern Exposure is pleased to announce our new fellowship for art writing, initiated by SoEx Curatorial Committee members Michele Carlson and Genevieve Quick. Just as artists need exploratory opportunities to develop their practices beyond exhibitions, writers need support in crafting their voices beyond the immediate deadlines and mandates of publishing. In recognizing the role that art writing plays in a dynamic art community, SoEx is expanding its focus to support local art writers.

Writing fellows will be provided with access to our archives, the support of our staff and network to conduct research, and a $1,000 honorarium. Workspace at Southern Exposure will also be available if desired. SoEx will support the production of a publication that develops out of this research time.

Two writers will be selected to participate in 2016 through an open call application process. Writers at all levels in their careers are encouraged to apply. We are interested in supporting writers who are dedicated to provocative subjects, thoughtful and clear writing, and expanding the forms that art writing may take beyond the traditional review or academic paper.

The fellowship will be open to residents of Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, Sacramento, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Solano, Sonoma, and Yolo counties. Each fellowship will span six months; approximate periods are April – September 2016 and September 2016 – February 2017.

This opportunity encourages writers to engage with SoEx as a collaborator, connecting with our artists, our rich archive of Bay Area art history, and our nationwide network of makers, organizations, writers, thinkers, activists, teachers, and community members. In an effort to build community, we expect writers to engage with the activities and ideas related to our programming. However, writers are not required to produce writing specifically about the programming on view at SoEx.

Application guidelines can be found at www.soex.org.
